5 Student Status at Niigata University

The status of exchange students can be either Special Auditing Student or Special Research Student. Please understand the characteristics of each status, and decided to apply for the more appropriate status with regards to your scholastic goals.

I. Special Auditing Student

- Special Auditing Student status is for students who want to audit graduate college courses (if necessary, department courses as well).
- The Japanese Immigration Bureau's rules stipulate that international exchange students (Special Auditing Students) must take classes taught for more than 10 hours (600 minutes) per week. Since each class is 90 minutes long, students need to take at least 7 classes per week. Course credit depends on the subject you choose.
- Exchange students who are admitted will choose Japanese language classes at the Global Education Center.

※The content on the website now is not for the 2017 Fall semester.

- The students can receive advice from a supervisor about which classes to audit after they have arrived in Japan.
- After the study period, Niigata University will issue an Academic Transcript and a Certificate of Proof of Enrollment at Niigata University.

II. Special Research Student

- Special Research Student status is for students who want to advance their own research interests in Japan.
- Because Special Research Students do not attend classes, there is ample time to do research.
- The students can receive advice from a supervisor about what to research after they have arrived in Japan.
- After the study period, Niigata University will issue a Certificate of Proof of Enrollment at Niigata University.
